MBDA National Director

Says Goodbye

David A. Hinson, National Director

Dear Friends,

After four and a half years as National Director of the Minority Business Development Agency, I am leaving the Agency to return to the private sector on January 15, 2014. It has been a privilege to work with each and every one of you and to serve the American people under the leadership of President Obama and four Commerce Department secretaries, including Secretary Pritzker.

During my tenure as National Director, we worked to help the U.S. economy rebound from the worst economic downturn since the Great Depression. Like nearly every other federal agency, MBDA carried out its work under flat or reduced budgets, all while the demand for Agency services continued to increase. Despite these challenges, we experienced one of the most productive periods in Agency history. We increased funding for our national business center program for the first time in 15 years and we provided targeted support to our clients in the areas of manufacturing, healthcare technology, government contracting and exporting. We also increased bottom-line support for minority-owned firms by helping them get over $19 billion in capital and contract awards, resulting in the creation and/or retention of over 50,000 jobs.

We invested in new and exciting quantitative research on the minority business sector; dramatically increased our reach to the nation's Minority Business Enterprise community; and expanded relationships with agencies including the Overseas

Private Investment Corporation (OPIC), the Export-Import Bank and the Department of Energy, while strengthening relationships with agencies within Commerce. Finally, we leveraged the outstanding export capabilities of minority-owned firms in support of the President's National Export Initiative.

I leave MBDA in a strong position to continue to provide support to our nation's growing minority business community. National Deputy Director Alejandra Castillo will serve as Acting National Director upon my departure. I am grateful that Alejandra has agreed to take on this role. Over the past four years she has been my right hand, providing invaluable support in carrying out the Agency's mission. I have no doubt that Alejandra, along with our outstanding managers, Edith McCloud, Kimberly Marcus, Bridget Gonzales, Joann Hill, Roberto Lopez, and Ronald Marin, will continue to provide strong and steady leadership for the Agency.

It has been an honor to work with the entire MBDA team and to lead an Agency dedicated to supporting economic opportunities for all.

MBDA Client Amland is Illuminating Oakland

Thanks to innovative technologies and manufacturing methods and the need to reduce energy usage and costs, cities have an array of street and byway lighting options. Just as the candle-lit lantern gave way to gaslight, several technologies now compete to replace the high pressure sodium and mercury vapor lamps that have kept us out of the dark for the last 40 years.

The City of Oakland has cast its lot with light emitting diode lighting (LED) and chosen Amland Corporation of San Jose, an ASIAN, Inc., MBDA Center, San Jose client, to do the job. Amland is replacing 30,000 high pressure sodium street lights with what promise to be energy efficient and long-lived LEDs. This project will illuminate 450 square miles—the largest LED conversion plan undertaken by any U.S. city to date.

Amland's president, Kevin Phan, is excited about the project, both for the sake of his firm and the benefits LED technology has for the larger community. An émigré from Vietnam, Mr. Phan came to the States in 1982 and went to work for CalTrans, where he developed his interests in electrical contracting and civil transportation engineering.

Founded in 2002, from "American Land", provides services to public and private clients throughout Northern California. Notable clients include the Cities of San Jose and San Leandro, VTA and Caltrans.

ASIAN, Inc.'s MBDA Center, San Jose, has assisted Amland Corp. obtain bonding, working capital and insurance, and improved its marketing strategy. For the Oakland street lighting project, ASIAN, Inc.'s MBDA staff was

NBCI Locates Nearly Sixty Thousand Complaints Against Branch Banking and Trust Company Among African Americans in the Southeast

Phase 1 has ended Phase two begins in 30 days National Black Religious Broadcasters Joins Boycott

The National Black Church Initiative, a coalition of 34,000 churches representing 15.7 million African American churchgoers, located 32,587 complaints against BB&T Bank throughout the Southeast United States. The findings, both surprising and shocking, are part of the first phase of a seven year boycott against BB&T Bank. The complaints alleged unethical behavior, unnecessary fees, online banking trickery, bad loans, rude personnel, and overall uneasiness concerning white personnel towards black customers. We plan to aggregate these findings and file them online over the next two months so the public can appreciate the breadth and scope of why NBCI has taken this extraordinary effort. We also plan to speak with state regulators in Georgia, Virginia, Florida, and throughout the southeast to publicize the findings.

Rev. Sheldon Williams, President of the National Black Religious Broadcasters declares "we are very much ready to work with Rev. Evans and the National Black Church Initiative on this important community social justice project. I have been training our religious broadcasters throughout the Southeast how they can enhance and intensify this boycott. We are ready when Rev. Evans gives the go-ahead to employ out 10,000 broadcasters in this endeavor".

This represents the first phase of our Boycott against BB&T Bank. Phase two begins in 30 days which will substantially increase our online presence in order to educate and persuade the

About Branch Banking and Trust Company (BB&T)

BB&T Corporation (NYSE: BBT) is one of the largest financial services holding companies in the U.S. with $182.7 billion in assets and market capitalization of $23.8 billion, as of June 30, 2013. Based in Winston-Salem, N.C., the company operates approximately 1,851 financial centers in 12 states and Washington, D.C., and offers a full range of consumer and commercial banking, securities brokerage, asset management, mortgage and insurance products and services. A Fortune 500 company, BB&T is consistently recognized for outstanding client satisfaction by J.D. Power and Associates, the U.S. Small Business Administration, Greenwich Associates and others.

BB&T's banking subsidiaries are organized as a group of community banks, each with a regional president, which allows decisions to be made locally, close to the client. This also makes BB&T's client service more responsive, reliable and empathetic.

Our History - Simple Beginning

In the aftermath of the Civil War, Eastern North Carolina lay tattered, battered and torn ... an easy mark for profiteers and politicians bent on destroying what little remained. There was no money, no law and precious little trust or faith in the once-proud institutions of the South.

Alpheus Branch, the son of a wealthy planter in Halifax County, first came to Wilson to attend Deems Military Academy. After the war, he married Nannie Barnes, the daughter of Gen. Joshua Barnes, one of Wilson's founders.

Emergency Jobless Benefits Lead 2014 Congressional Agenda This Week

By Zenitha Prince

As millions of Americans returned to work from holiday vacations this week, at least 1.3 million others are glued to a congressional debate to see whether their emergency unemployment insurance will be extended.

No doubt, with the approximate 12 percent Black unemployment rate, double that of Whites, African-Americans are disproportionately affected by the pending decision.

"This issue is particularly critical for our community. Although African-Americans make up fewer than 13 percent of the national population, we represent more than 22.6 percent of the long-term unemployed," said Hilary Shelton, Washington Bureau director of the NAACP, which issued a statement pleading with Congress to restore the benefits.

Emergency unemployment, first enacted in 2008, makes 47 weeks of benefits available to people still looking for work when their state unemployment benefits end.

But, a bi-partisan budget deal struck in Congress in December did not include the emergency insurance, which ended Dec. 28. The scenario sparked new hardships for unemployed people who now face 2014 wondering how they will pay their bills, keep warm and feed their families without it.

The debate comes down to a partisan standoff. Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid was correctly optimistic as the Democratic-led Senate moved to discuss the emergency relief bill on Tuesday. But, although a bi-partisan group is working on a three-month extension, it was not clear how the Republican dominated House of Representatives will vote.

Democrats argue that denying the insurance not only hurts households, but puts a drag on the already beleaguered American economy. Republicans argue that continuing emergency unemployment insurance allows the Obama Administration and Congress to procrastinate on establishing new ways to build the jobs market. Republicans also say the $25 billion cost of the extension is too much.

Such is the familiar character of Washington politics in the second session of the 113th Congress. Meanwhile, President Obama, back from Christmas in Hawaii, is pushing for the extension of the emergency insurance. Saying it is "just plain cruel" to deny the continuation, he called for the same bi-partisan cooperation that led to the passage of the budget in December. He says he would sign the bill if it is passed.

Emergency Jobless Benefits Lead 2014 Congressional Agenda

“Just a few days after Christmas, more than one million of our fellow Americans lost a vital economic lifeline – the temporary insurance that helps folks make ends meet while they look for a job,” he said in his weekly address on Saturday. “Republicans in Congress went home for the holidays and let that lifeline expire. And for many of their constituents who are unemployed through no fault of their own, that decision will leave them with no income at all.”

The Senate was set to return to session Monday and the House of Representatives was to return on Tuesday – the same day the President has set a White House gathering with some who have lost their unemployment benefits. With mid-term elections coming up Nov. 4, 2014, it’s difficult to predict whether enough Republicans will heed the pleas to pass the emergency relief or whether they will stick to their partisan stances to win votes.

Obama indicates the unemployment insurance crisis could cause a setback just as America is in striking distance of financial recovery.

“After five years of working and sacrificing to recover and rebuild from crisis, we have it within our power, right now, to move this country forward,” he said. “It’s entirely up to us. And I’m optimistic for the year that lies ahead.”

SBA Veterans Advantage Loan

SBA Procedural Notice 5000-1299

The purpose of this notice is to inform SBA lenders of the SBA Veterans Advantage.

This will begin January 1, 2014 and continue through September 30, 2014, and is intended to facilitate lending to veteran-owned small businesses so that they have the tools they need to start and grow their businesses.

Guaranty Fee Reduction

Currently, SBA Express loans of $150,001 to $350,000 have an up-front guaranty fee of 3%. To continue supporting America's veterans, the SBA Veterans Advantage reduces the up-front guaranty fee from 3% to 0% for SBA Express loans over $150,000 approved to small businesses owned by qualified veterans. This will encourage greater participation in SBA lending programs with a direct benefit to veteran-owned small businesses. (All 7(a) loans of $150,000 or less have an up-front guaranty fee of 0%, as announced in SBA Information Notice #5000-1288.)

Note that there is no reduction in the Lender's annual service fee for loans over $150,000.

SBA Veterans Advantage Qualifications

In order to qualify for this, businesses must be 51% or more owned and controlled by an individual or individuals in one or more of the following groups:

- Veterans (other than dishonorably discharged);
- Service-Disabled Veterans;
- Active Duty Military service member participating in the military's Transition Assistance Program (TAP);
- Reservists and National Guard Members; or
- Current spouse of any Veteran, Active Duty service member, or any Reservist or National Guard member; or widowed spouse of a service member who died while in service or of a service-connected disability.

Lenders must document in their loan file a borrower's eligibility using the documentation identified in the attachment to this Notice and must present copies of that documentation with any request to SBA to purchase.

SBA currently assists veterans through its 68 local SBA district offices, 15 Veterans Business Outreach Centers nationwide, its partnership with approximately 1,000 Small Business Development Centers and approximately 12,000 SCORE Counselors. Questions concerning this Notice should be directed to the lender relations specialist in the local SBA field office. The local SBA field office may be found at <http://www.sba.gov/tools/local-assistance/districtoffices>

5 Must Know GI Bill Facts

Terry Howell

Fact #1.

You have 10 - 15 years to use your GI Bill benefits.

Once you have separated from the service you have 10 years to use all of your benefits under the Montgomery GI Bill and 15 years to use your Post-9/11 GI Bill benefits. Although separating from service "starts the clock" on your 10-year time limit, you should know that if you rejoin active-duty service for more than 90 days, during the 10-year period, your 10-year clock is reset. In other words, you get 10 years from your last discharge.

Seaman Smith left the active duty and joined the Navy Reserve. Three years later she returned to active duty with seven years remaining on the MGIB clock. At that point, the clock is reset at the 10-year mark when she leaves the active duty service again, at which point the 10-year clock will start ticking again. She now has a fresh 10 years left to use ALL of her benefits or she will lose her remaining balance, which then returns to Uncle Sam.

Fact #2.

The GI Bill is not Federal Financial Aid.

The GI Bill is not considered Financial Aid in the traditional sense. College and University financial aid departments do not consider the MGIB financial aid because it is normally paid directly to you, not the school. Most schools will require you to sign a promissory note or apply for student loans to pay them upfront. You will then be required to pay these loans - hopefully with your GI Bill payments.

This also means that you are eligible for student loans, scholarships, and Pell Grants along with the GI Bill.

Note: Although un-taxable, GI Bill benefit payments reduce the amount of student financial aid you are eligible to receive.

Fact #3.

You can stop and start using the GI Bill as needed.

Unfortunately, many people believe that once you apply for benefits you have to remain enrolled in school to get the full benefit. Thankfully that's not true; you can use the GI Bill for any period of time, take time off and re-apply to use it again at a later date. (Keeping in mind fact number one)

You can also use it as you progress to your education goal. If you use your benefits wisely your GI Bill benefits can help you finish your associates, and work on your bachelor's, and later complete your master's degree.

Fact #4.

A "month" of benefits doesn't always mean a month.

The GI Bill benefit provides 36 months of education benefits. The term "months" can often be confusing. The "36 months" of benefits does not mean you have only 36 months to use it, nor does it mean you must use it all in one 36 month period.

There are two ways the term month is used. One way for active duty and the other for veterans. The following should help you to better understand this aspect of the Montgomery GI Bill.

For Veterans: Every time you use the current maximum "payment rate" of MGIB benefits you use a month of your 36 months of benefits. In this example a "month" doesn't really mean a month.

Here is what the VA says: "If you are a veteran and you receive $5,284, and your full-time MGIB rate is $1,321, divide $5,284 by $1,321. Your entitlement charge is four months.

However for active duty: If you are on active duty and you go to school full-time for four months, but your tuition is only $1,000, you will still be charged for four months of your 36 month entitlement. In this example a "month" actually does mean a month.

Fact #5.

The GI Bill pays according to the number of credits you take.

The GI Bill payment rates are based on several factors, the biggest being your credit load. For example a full-time student using the Montgomery GI Bill will get up to $1564 a month while a half-time student will only get half that amount. Learn more about how Montgomery I Bill Payment Rates work.

It is also important to know that the MGIB Payment rates increase every year. See the current GI Bill payment rate tables to view the details and this year's payment rate.

The Post-9/11 GI Bill pays according to several factors, the main factors being number of months served on active duty and the number of credit pursued.

You can apply for the GI Bill by filling out and following the instructions on VA Form 22-1990, Application for Education Benefits. For more details, see the Post-9/11 GI Bill Application Process and get started using your benefits today!

instrumental in Amland obtaining a line of credit necessary to carry the project forward.

Amland made its own significant operational contributions to the project, including helping the city obtain a loan from a local financial institution. Oakland will not have to front capital, but will pay for the project over the next 8 to 10 years using anticipated energy cost savings.

From the City of Oakland's perspective, the project promises several measurable benefits. Paul M. A. Chan of the Oakland Public Works Agency is overseeing the Oakland Street Lighting project. He cites some of the benefits of lighting the streets with energy efficient LEDs:

- Citizens of Oakland will have better visibility and enjoy increased safety. Improved roadway visibility also allows police to work better;
- The City of Oakland will enjoy lower monthly utilities cost;
- With an expected lifespan of 12-15 years, LEDs will significantly reduce maintenance costs;
- At the macro level, the energy efficiency of LEDs will reduce the City's carbon footprint;
- LED technology results in fewer dark spots, improving traffic visibility and public safety; and last but not least,
- The GE-manufactured LED lights also act as a natural bug repellent.

Chan adds that he has been sharing his experience and expertise with other cities in the Bay Area that are interested in adopting similar measures.

Hispanics: A Bright Future Fuelled by Access to Technology

By Javier Palomarez

Last year's presidential election solidified the power and the strength of the Hispanic electorate. Never before has a presidential race been so impacted by the nation's Hispanic electorate, and never again will an American president be voted into office without taking into account the Hispanic vote.

Although Hispanics have come far in terms of political clout, our community continues to fight for our voice to be included in the national debate, secure our place at the table, and be part of the American narrative. Education is not only the key to success, but also pivotal to be part of the American business success story itself. But to increase access to education, it is important that we are all on an even playing field in terms of access to technology and the opportunities offered by having affordable internet service.

In terms of Hispanic businesses, the challenges are not unlike the rest of American small businesses. The key concerns still revolve around expanding access capital to grow, hire workers, create jobs and contribute to America's economic prosperity. The Internet greatly impacts the growth of a business. Access to technology opens doors to solutions at the most granular level – from being able to promote a business online, to participating in government and corporate procurement opportunities – especially since the vast majority of contracting is conducted on the Internet.

If you take a good look at our education system, success is mainly based on having reliable access to the Internet. The vast majority of students — anywhere between grade school to college — need to have access to the Internet in order to do homework, apply for college or research financial aid opportunities. For society as a whole, whether you are applying for a home loan or searching for a new job, you are most likely doing so online.

Certain segments of the Hispanic community face greater challenges because of their limited access to affordable Internet. Although we are constantly hearing that Hispanics over-index in terms of Internet usage, for many low-income Hispanics, there is still a deep digital divide.

In fact, a recent study by Pew's Internet & American Life projects that only 53 percent of Hispanics have adopted broadband at home, compared to 74 percent of Caucasian Americans. There is no excuse for anyone living in the United States, one of the most technologically advanced societies in the world, to not have access to the Internet.

Access to the Internet is a critical necessity for all Americans, but certainly for Hispanics. That is where programs like Internet Essentials have become a game changer for the community. Internet Essentials, the nation's largest and most comprehensive broadband adoption program, provides home broadband Internet access for just $9.95 a month, the option to purchase a computer for less than $150 and free digital literacy training for low-income families, is a visionary and necessary program. This Comcast-lead program is bringing access into the homes of those who have become the most disconnected from society.

In just about two years, Internet Essentials has enrolled 1 million low-income Americans, or 250,000 households. Internet Essentials not only brings the Internet to a child's fingertips, but also impacts the entire household, opening a world of education, information, news and job markets. In that sense, the Internet affords us an opportunity to be better educated and informed, therefore increasing the chance to compete on a level playing field.

The reality is that the Internet is a central part of education and business. It is the great equalizer and provides students an opportunity to have the same access to information than other students have, and gives even the smallest business the opportunity to market and advertise themselves in an efficient manner alongside major corporations.

Comcast's Internet Essentials program illustrates strategic action and necessary leadership that – in turn – empowers our nation's working families.

Palomarez is the president and CEO of the United States Hispanic Chamber of Commerce.

Sixty Thousand Complaints Against BB&T

public not to do business with BB&T Bank. As a result of the 57,000 complaints, we have collected over 750,000 emails and created new software to send out information to these online contacts. With the power of ten friends for each contact we will have online presence of 7 million followers. We plan to concentrate in the footprint of the bank. In addition, we will establish a new tactical approach yet to be revealed that will galvanize the public concerning the negative banking approach that BB&T Bank has systematically applied to African Americans throughout the region.

The Rev Anthony Evans, President of NBCI, says "BB&T Bank's leadership thought that we had gone away and that this campaign had fizzled. But just the opposite is true. We have been quietly gathering the necessary information so that we can create a systematic retribution against the bank's treatment of African Americans. Our upcoming tactic will truly galvanize not only the 750,000 emails that we have collected, but ten times that size. We are ready to implement Phase 2 and it will come with a big moral bang."

DISCLAIMER: The poll conducted to arrive at these statistics is as a result of 20 years of experience from NBCI staff members in polling church members. We do not claim that this was a rigid scientific poll that covers and constitutes acceptable industry standards in polling. However, we are confident that the statistics we have arrived at in-house reflects the feelings of African American religious congregants who may or may not be a part of NBCI.

About NBCI

The National Black Church Initiative (NBCI) is a coalition of 34,000 churches working to eradicate racial disparities in healthcare, technology, education, housing, and the environment. BIDSYNC. District Office: 2211 Garden Road, Monterey, CA 93940

General Project Description: The bidder hereby proposes to furnish all labor, materials, supplies, equipment, all other items of expense, and transportation necessary to conduct targeted live-trapping of raptors identified as threat to snowy plover eggs, chicks and adults at multiple sites on the Monterey Bay (see map in bid packet). The majority of work will be conducted between March 1 and July 31 in 2014 and 2015. Work may occur outside of those periods and may extend through March of 2016. Approximately 28 to 35 work days during the extent of the contract, depending on daily rate. Raptor species include, but are not limited to: northern harrier, great-horned owl, barn owl, red-tailed hawk and American kestrel. The Contractor will hold all required federal and state permits for trap operation, banding and salvage. The Contractor will possess all appropriate live-capture equipment, for example bal chatri trap, dho-gaza, and bow net. The Contractor will work closely with partner biologists to develop and implement an effective strategy for capture and relocation of identified raptor predators. Transportation and relocation will be carried out by partner biologists. The Contractor will train partner biologists (USFWS, CSP and Point Blue) in trap techniques and protocols during the course of trapping efforts. Timing of focused trap efforts will be determined by observed raptor activity and information provided by partner biologists, which they will obtain from field observations and remote cameras. Every attempt will be made to assess nesting status of targeted raptor individuals and to initiate trapping before nests are established; if necessary, trapping of nesting adults may be conducted. Investigation will be accomplished in accordance with the plans, specifications, addendums and amendments within the contract.

50 Years Later, Commerce Works to Keep Fighting Poverty

Guest blog post by Josh Dickson, Director, Center for Faith-based and Neighborhood Partnerships

“This administration today, here and now, declares unconditional war on poverty in America...It will not be a short or easy struggle, no single weapon or strategy will suffice, but we shall not rest until that war is won.” – President Lyndon B. Johnson, State of the Union, January 8, 1964.”

Today marks the 50th anniversary of President Lyndon B. Johnson’s declaration of the War on Poverty. The effort, which consisted of anti-poverty programs aimed at improving education and healthcare access, feeding the hungry, and ensuring a livelihood for our seniors, was an important step in both our country’s awareness of and commitment to fighting the hurdles, hardships and lack of opportunity faced by people living below the poverty line.

Over the past 50 years, federal programs like Social Security, Medicare, Medicaid, Headstart and the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) have played a critical role in the national effort to fight poverty. Today, these and other anti-poverty initiatives have contributed to a reduction in overall poverty rates and are currently keeping close to 40 million Americans from falling below the poverty line. In addition to a decrease in the overall poverty rate during this time, the poverty rate among seniors has fallen from roughly 30 percent in the mid-1960s to 9.1 percent in 2012.

The Obama administration has worked hard to help create jobs, improve our schools, increase access to healthcare, and ensure fair treatment for everyone working and seeking work. And the effort to continue fighting poverty remains a top priority for President Obama. According to the Commerce Department’s Census Bureau, 49.7 million Americans, or 16 percent of the population, were in poverty in 2012. Furthermore, a Census report released yesterday found that 3.5 percent of our population experienced chronic poverty between 2009 and 2011. During that same period of time, nearly one in three Americans lived in poverty for at least two months.

Since the mid-1960s, the Census Bureau has led federal efforts to measure poverty in the U.S. In 2010, Census developed a supplemental poverty measure to take into account the effect of government programs on poverty not included in the official poverty measure. Census’ data help federal, local and private sector entities allocate critical resources in communities nationwide.

In addition to Census’ work, Commerce plays several important roles in the administration’s efforts to fight poverty. Our Economic Development Administration provides grants that support critical infrastructure for job training and business development in economically distressed and underserved communities. Our Minority Business Development Agency runs a nationwide network of business development centers that work with local minority-owned businesses to help them grow and create jobs.

Further, the Department’s recently released “Open for Business Agenda” makes skills training a key policy priority. We plan to partner with federal agencies to transform workforce development, ensuring that skills training programs are driven by industry needs. These efforts are crucial for helping the millions of underemployed or unemployed Americans get the skills needed to fill the approximately 3.9 million open jobs now and the millions more that will open in the future.

While poverty is not yet history, history has proven that meaningful progress is possible when we work together. The Department of Commerce is committed to doing our part to strengthen communities, help create more jobs, build a more skilled, 21st century workforce, and expand economic opportunities for all Americans.

A Real Movement of the 99%- Don’t Look Down

By William Spriggs

From 1946 through the 1970s, the incomes of Americans grew together. This, of course, does not mean everyone earned the same amount, but it did mean that if the economy grew, everyone’s income grew. That pattern allowed President John F. Kennedy to note in a 1963 speech that “a rising tide lifts all boats.” Since the 1970s, that has not been the case. A rising tide has lifted those at the top 1 percent, sunk those at the bottom and left the rest adrift in rough seas. President Kennedy used the speech to defend a project some felt was pork barrel politics.

Today, the claim that a growing economy benefits everyone is used to defend tax cuts to corporations—that send America’s jobs overseas and shift their profits to tax haven countries—and the top 1 percent, like corporate CEOs who direct their corporations to borrow money to buy back the company stock to boost the CEO’s bonus for rising stock prices and their personal wealth in stock holdings.

Recent headlines have been dominated by congressional Republican-led cuts to the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) and unemployment insurance to longtime unemployed workers. Republicans believe this is a winning strategy because the path to the weird politics of their rise has been to convince those in the middle that it is the 20 percent at the bottom versus the 80 percent at the top. They have been reinforced by a prevailing notion that the growth in income inequality is the result of skills differences, with those industrious enough to study hard and get good education being rewarded and those too lazy to study being outpaced by advancing technology. But the Great Recession affected highly educated and less educated workers. And the failure of young people to gain a foothold in the current job market makes clear that explanation of the world is not true. It certainly does not explain why the real growth in inequality is between the 99 percent and the 1 percent.

But some warn that embracing a populist message over things like SNAP, extended unemployment benefits and the minimum wage is a turnoff to the middle class. There is lingering fear that the Republicans are right—the middle class doesn’t want to join a movement of the 99 percent and would rather cast its lot against the bottom 20 percent.

But if policies are going to truly benefit the 99 percent, it is precisely the bottom 20 percent who matter. A major reason the 1946 to 1970s era was marked by more equal growth is because we lifted the bottom—boosting and expanding coverage of Social Security benefits, expanding the share of workers covered by unemployment insurance and the minimum wage and having the minimum wage keep pace with overall wage and productivity growth. The rising tide was not that we aimed at tax cuts for the wealthy, but pushed up the level of the economy at the bottom.

A recent article in the federal Bureau of Labor Statistics’ Monthly Labor Review highlights the 24 percent of America’s families with children who receive some form of means-tested public assistance like SNAP, Medicaid and public housing. Eighty percent of those households include at least one worker. The expenditures of these families exceed their incomes, meaning every dime of assistance gets pumped back into the economy. Nearly 80 percent of their spending goes just to food, housing and transportation (though they are much less likely to own a car or house). Because family sizes are about equal between those getting assistance and those who don’t, the fact that families on assistance spend half what families not on assistance spend means there are huge differences between the experiences of America’s children in those families. Most notably, their families buy a third less food and have less than half to spend on education and books.

The middle has to care about the bottom because it represents how far our society will let someone fall. The current high level of unemployment hurts those with jobs, because the cost of losing a job is set so high it dampens demands for better wages and benefits.

A higher floor means a better bargaining position. Republicans want the middle to believe they are better off if they are farther from the bottom. A true movement of the 99 percent needs the middle to understand that you aren’t rising because those around you are falling, but you are falling if the ceiling is rising.

Our History - Simple Beginning

Branch established a small mercantile business called Branch and Company. Through his business and community involvement, he came to know Thomas Jefferson Hadley, a Wilson county native who was trying to organize the first system of public schools. They joined forces in 1872 to create a banking institution people could believe in, Branch and Hadley.

As private bankers, Branch and Hadley accepted time deposits, paid interest and loaned money to help rebuild the farms and small businesses in the community. With a place to borrow money at reasonable interest to buy seed and fertilizer, area farmers planted their fields in cotton and in the early 1880s, experimented with a new money crop, tobacco.

In 1887, Branch bought Hadley’s interest in the bank for $81,000 and changed its name to Branch and Company, Bankers.

In 1889, Branch, his father-in-law Gen. Barnes, Hadley, J.F. Bruton, R.L. Thompson and Walter Brodie secured a charter from the North Carolina Legislature to operate the Wilson Banking and Trust Company (later amended to the State Bank of Wilson and later to The Branch Banking Company). However, the charter was not implemented until 1900.

Alpheus Branch died Jan. 3, 1893. The bank continued to grow in the years that followed. In 1900, Branch and Company, Bankers, was sold to Branch Banking and Company, holder of the state charter. On Dec. 20, 1902, the bank opened a savings department, paying four percent interest compounded quarterly.

Prior to 1900, virtually no trust business was conducted in North Carolina by institutions. The 1889 state charter authorized the bank to organize a trust department, but changes in the law delayed implementation until 1907, when Branch Banking and Company became the first bank in the state to engage actively in trust activities.

Our Philosophy

In a rapidly changing and unpredictable world, individuals and organizations need a clear set of fundamental principles to guide their actions. At BB&T we know the content of our business will, and should, experience constant change. Change is necessary for progress. However, the context, our vision, mission and values, are unchanging because these principles are based on basic truths.

BB&T is a mission-driven organization with a clearly defined set of values. We encourage our employees to have a strong sense of purpose, a high level of self-esteem and the capacity to think clearly and logically.

We believe that competitive advantage is largely in the minds of our employees as represented by their capacity to turn rational ideas into action towards the accomplishment of our mission.

Wells Fargo UrbanLIFTSM Community Grant Program awards $11.4 million to strengthen distressed neighborhoods in 25 cities

Grant program from Wells Fargo to help local communities with rehabilitation and neighborhood improvement projects

Wells Fargo, the nation's leading home mortgage lender today announced that 59 non-profits were awarded grants totaling $11.4 million from the UrbanLIFTSM Community Grant Program to help strengthen neighborhoods in 25 metropolitan statistical areas (MSAs).

"These grants will help advance community stabilization in cities that were significantly impacted by the housing downturn," said JK Huey, senior vice president of asset management and preservation with Wells Fargo Home Lending Servicing. "We look forward to seeing how the projects, funded by the UrbanLIFT community grant program, help create safer and sustainable neighborhoods."

The UrbanLIFTSM community grant program, funded by Wells Fargo and administered by NeighborWorks America®, is designed to provide support to local nonprofits for neighborhood revitalization projects in 25 MSAs with diverse populations that were impacted by foreclosures.

Grant recipients participated in a competitive application process administered by NeighborWorks America. Awards were determined based on the applicant's capacity and demonstrated experience.

Approximately $458,600 is available for each of the 25 communities. Local, regional and national 501(c)(3) nonprofit organizations will receive grants to support four types of projects: single-family housing rehabilitation, single-family demolition, neighborhood improvement and housing-related site improvements.

Nonprofits awarded grants include:

CDFI Fund Announces Free "Strengthening Small and Emerging CDFIs" Webinars

The Community Development Financial Institutions Fund (CDFI Fund) today announced that free webinars will be provided as part of the Capacity Building Initiative's "Strengthening Small and Emerging CDFIs" series between January 2014 and June 2014. The technical assistance webinars, provided by Opportunity Finance Network, will provide small and emerging Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs) with best practices and tools to evaluate their business practices and pursue strategies to strengthen their organizations.

The CDFI Fund announced the "Strengthening Small and Emerging CDFIs" series in September 2012 to expand the capacity of CDFIs with a strong ambition to increase their impact and improve their sustainability. The series is focused on overcoming barriers to growth, building effective partnerships, expanding products and geography, and exploring drivers of growth and sustainability. The free webinars are designed to maximize the reach of this important Capacity Building Initiative series.

- Capitalization: Raising Debt and Equity for CDFIs (Tuesday, January 21, 2014, 1 p.m. EST): Responding to popular demand, we are presenting a webinar on capitalization, a common challenge among many small and emerging CDFIs. Join us to explore various sources of capital available to CDFIs. In this webinar, you will learn to develop a plan to access the sources of capital appropriate for your CDFI.
- Leading Organizational Change (Wednesday, February 5, 2014, 1 p.m. EST): As your organization prepares for ambitious growth, it must consider and manage for the effects change will have on the organization and its staff. This webinar will walk through the steps for leading organizational change successfully, as well as identify how different types of change may affect your organization.

Registration

The "Strengthening Small and Emerging CDFIs" webinars are free and open to the general public, but advanced registration is required to access the presentation. Registration may be completed up until the start time listed for each individual session.
